

Erratum to: Medical care and drug-related problems: Do doctors and pharmacists speak the same language?

J. W. Foppe van Mil<sup>1</sup> · Tommy Westerlund<sup>2</sup> · Lawrence Brown<sup>3</sup> · Timothy F. Chen<sup>4</sup> · Martin Henman<sup>5</sup> · Kurt Hersberger<sup>6</sup> · James McElnay<sup>7</sup> · Martin Schulz<sup>8</sup>

© Springer International Publishing 2016

Erratum to: Int J Clin Pharm
DOI 10.1007/s11096-016-0249-x

In the original publication of this article, affiliation of the authors has been mentioned incorrectly. The correct affiliations are provided in this erratum.

---

The online version of the original article can be found under doi:10.1007/s11096-016-0249-x.

---

✉ J. W. Foppe van Mil
jwfvml@planet.nl

- <sup>1</sup> van Mil Consultancy, Zuidlaren, The Netherlands
- <sup>2</sup> University of Gothenburg, Gothenburg, Sweden
- <sup>3</sup> School of Pharmacy, Chapman University, Irvine, CA, USA
- <sup>4</sup> School of Pharmacy, University of Sydney, Sydney, Australia
- <sup>5</sup> Trinity College, Dublin, Ireland, UK
- <sup>6</sup> Pharmaceutical Care Research Group, University of Basle, Basle, Switzerland
- <sup>7</sup> Queens University, Belfast, N. Ireland, UK
- <sup>8</sup> Goethe-University, Frankfurt, Germany